Hi.

My name is Dylan John Scott, a fine arts graduate cum front end web developer.

I studied at the Elam school of fine arts and then completed a diploma of digital media at the Media Design School. I create web based interfaces that compliment content and are intuitive and easy to use way. My background and continued interest in art push me to conceptualise new zexperiences with the web.

If you like what you see here, why not get in contact with me.
